

Why do people choose yoga therapy?

Almost all clients want to address the discomfort associated with a diagnosis, treatment, or loss of function as the result of a specific disease state or condition. Often, clients are drawn to yoga therapy because they have benefited from a yoga practice and now want to address a specific health concern. Others have not had full relief of symptoms with other approaches to their physical or psychological suffering and are seeking an alternative. Some clients have never done yoga, but are eager to try a safe, natural approach to achieve optimal well-being.

What health concerns can yoga therapy help?

Yoga therapy has been found to be effective for a wide range of conditions including but not limited to: muscular and joint pain; chronic pain; inflammatory and immune conditions; emotional balance and mood regulation; and neurological conditions.

What are the ongoing benefits of yoga therapy?

Yoga therapy practitioners treat the whole person. They consider and address health on every level of functioning - body, mind, and spirit. Many clients find that yoga therapy sessions effectively address their specific conditions as well as offer a general sense of increased calm and vitality.

What is the difference between yoga and yoga therapy?

Yoga is an ancient practice designed to promote health and well-being through self-awareness, mindful movement practices, breathing practices, and meditation. It is a system that supports personal change and transformation.

These skills and techniques of yoga are deepened and expanded in yoga therapy as the practitioner and client work closely together toward the client's wellness goals. By doing so, yoga therapy can bring relief of symptoms, a higher level of daily functioning, and a greater sense of well-being and ease.

Yoga Therapy at the Natural Care Center

When you choose care with our yoga therapy student interns, you receive the best that we have to offer at highly affordable rates. You are also playing a critical role in creating the next generation of integrative healers and leaders.

What is yoga therapy?

In yoga therapy, the ancient wisdom, tools, and techniques of yoga are applied to each person's unique circumstances and health challenges with the goal of improving, maintaining, and optimizing health and well-being. Yoga therapy addresses the whole person on all levels of being – physical, energetic, emotional, mental, and spiritual.

The goals of yoga therapy include managing or eliminating symptoms that cause suffering, improving function, helping to prevent or remove the underlying causes of illness, and ultimately helping clients change their relationship to and identification with the specific disease state or condition that is causing a separation from health.

Appointments at the Natural Care Center

The Natural Care Center provides a pleasant, safe, and supportive environment for clients. You'll be seen by a team of graduate student interns and highly experienced faculty supervisors.

What will my first yoga therapy visit be like?

During the initial 90-minute session, your practitioner will gather information about your health and personal history, health concerns, and lifestyle practices. Depending on the information gathered in this initial intake, your practitioner may elect to conduct a full postural assessment to identify any musculoskeletal imbalance. Together, you will set goals for your personalized therapeutic yoga practices. You will leave your first session with a plan to address your specific needs and that will support your journey to increased health and well-being.

What should I bring with me to my first visit?

Please bring your Patient Intake Form and a list of all medications and nutritional and herbal supplements you are taking. Bring or wear comfortable clothing for mindful movement practices.

Can I combine yoga therapy and other treatment?

We are happy to work with you and your healthcare providers and wellness practitioners to provide a comprehensive and collaborative approach to your care.

How do I schedule an appointment?

Contact a student intern directly or the Natural Care Center at NaturalCareCenter@muih.edu or 410-888-9048 ext. 6614.

What are the fees?

Yoga Therapy New Patient Intake:	$70
Follow-Up Sessions:	$55

Will insurance cover my appointment?

Coverage for care is dependent upon your healthcare or insurance plan. It is your responsibility to confirm your benefits. We will provide you with a receipt for submission to file a claim for benefits. If you plan to seek reimbursement for care, please discuss this with your student intern or contact the Assistant Director, Operations of the Natural Care Center at NaturalCareCenter@muih.edu or 410-888-9048 ext. 6656.

What is your cancellation policy?

We understand that there may be a shift in your schedule and you may need to cancel or reschedule an appointment. In order to avoid a fee, please contact your student intern or the Natural Care Center more than 24 hours prior to your scheduled appointment. In the event we are not notified, there may be a charge for your missed visit.
